

COURTESY WEEK ON PROGRAM OF THE MERCHANTS

AUGUST 20 TO AUGUST 25 TO BE OBSERVED BY GREENCASTLE BUSINESS MEN IN CONDUCT-ING PERSONAL DRIVE FOR TRADE EXTENSION

As a climax of a most successful summer's selling season the merchants of Greencastle, through the Chamber of Commerce, announces a "Courtesy Week" for August 20-25.
In this week it will be the endeavor of the Greencastle business men to broaden the field into new places and to meet new faces at the Greencastle counters.

In the first place it is planned to conduct a wide personal drive by the merchants themselves and heads of departments into this new field and there to distribute a personal invitation to the remote tradesman to visit Greencastle, get acquainted and look over the very full lines of merchandise carried in the local stores.

This drive will be by automobile. It will be undertaken on Wednesday afternoon, August 15. On that day, just afternoon, forty cars will leave the city on forty different routes, to remote zones and armed with an invitation that sets out some of the big things accomplished by the Greencastle merchant in the last few years, the invitation will request a visit to Greencastle during "Courtesy Week."

In this week, the local merchants promise some rare bargains in merchandise. The stores will be dressed up, bib and tucker, show windows will display bargain features and the local papers will announce the low selling features and bargains offered.

In broadening his trade zone, the Greencastle merchant approaches the task with willing heart. He says in his invitation that he has been largely responsible for the present prosperity of the city. Greencastle has added nearly three million dollars to its industrial life in the last five years. We are at the million-a-year mark as to the payroll; we have added one hundred homes and nearly a thousand to the population. City, factories, college and community are all forging ahead and business is good.
"We can do a lot more at the same expense" says the local tradesman, come and see.

August 20-25 will be "Courtesy Week" in Greencastle.

PHYSICIANS BELIEVE BOY FEEBLE MINDED

CONCLUSION FORMED AT IN-QUEST IS THAT DONALD McPHERSON FIRE BUG, SHOULD BE SENT TO INSTITUTION AT BUTLERVILLE FOR TREAT-MENT—MOTHER TESTIFIES THAT SON IS SUBJECT TO CONVULSIONS

At an inquest held in the office of Squire Robert H. Newgent, Monday afternoon, to determine the mental condition of Donald McPherson of Brazil, the young man who recently was arrested for setting fire to the Grady residence on South Indiana Street, the physicians after a consultation concluded that the young man is feeble minded and not insane.

The mother of McPherson testified that her son had always been mentally unbalanced and was subject to convulsions. Following the testimony Dr.
McGaughey and Dr. Zaring held a consultation and recommended that the young man be sent to the Institution for Feeble Minded at Butlerville.

The matter will be presented to the Court for action and a definite decision will be rendered probably late this afternoon.

INDIANA'S FIRE LOSS IS REDUCED $1,300,000 YEAR

STATISTICS COMPILED BY STATE FIRE MARSHALL'S OFFICE SHOW ENCOURAGING RE-SULTS FOR FISCAL YEAR—PUBLIC EDUCATION LARGEST FACTOR IN EFFORT TO RE-DUCE LOSS — CO-OPERATION OF CITIZENS HELPS GREATLY TOWARD FIRE PREVENTION

INDIANAPOLIS, July 31.—Indiana's fire loss was reduced by $1,300,- 000 in the fiscal year for 1922 according to the records of the state fire marshall's office, and the Hoosier state was the only one in the Union that reduced its losses last year, it is shown by the statistics recently compiled by a national insurance bureau.

Newman T. Miller, state fire marshall, who has devoted much of his efforts to public education in fire prevention methods and elimination of hazards, reaps much encouragement from these figures and declares that the saving to the state is particularly worthwhile in view of the fact that the fire marshal's activities are wholly financed by the license fees of non-resident fire insurance companies operating in this state and costs the taxpayers nothing.

"This reduction is shown despite the fact that reports of more losses were placed on our books than in the preceding year," Mr. Miller said.
"This is due to the fact that the people are cooperating with the fire marshall's department and the local departments in cities and towns toward wiping out hazards and establishing a public consciousness of fire dangers. When carelessness and negligence cease, and intelligence in building structures and handling inflam-mables is practiced, fire damage can be held down and conquered. That more losses were reported last year does not mean that there were actually more fires in Indiana, but that officials charged with the duty of reporting these fires to the state fire marshall are now functioning and are performing a duty many of them had been neglecting."

BLACKBERRIES ARE PLENTIFUL

Blackberries of exceptionally large size are in abundance this year.
The crop is believed to be the largest in years. Reports from many berry pickers are that the bushes are black with the luscious fruit.

The woods are visited daily by many pickers who are taking advantage of the bountiful supply. There are berries for everybody.

Mrs. Charles Huffman suffered a severely sprained wrist and slight bruises and Thomas Reid, a son-in-suffered a severely sprained wrist when the Buick Touring car, owned by Mr. Huffman and driven by Mr.

Reid, skidded in the sand and then went into the ditch and turned over, near Mt. Meridian, Monday evening

When Mr. Reid attempted to make the turn off the National Road onto the road used as a detour road to Greencastle, he was unable to make the sharp turn and the car skidded in the sand, went into the ditch and turned over. Mr. Reid who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Huffman was not acquainted with the road and did not realize that it was such a sharp turn.

The top of the machine was demolished, the windshield was broken and a front fender was badly bent. The car was righted by men who were attracted to the scene of the accident and Mr. and Mrs. Huffman and party

The other occupants of the car are Mrs. Thomas Reid and son, Thomas, Jr. and Charles and Anna Mae Fel-

WASHINGTON AND JEFFERSON STAR TO COME TO DEPAUW AS AN ASSISTANT OF JIMMY ASH-MORE—DEPAUW LUCKY TO SECURE SO VALUABLE A MAN

Harold Erichson for the past four years football star and track man of Washington and Jefferson has been secured by James Ashmore, DePauw Athletic director as assistant football coach and track coach. Erichson will report for duty at DePauw this fall.

Erichson is a man of great ability and should be of great assistance to Ashmore in shaping up the DePauw athletes this fall and in track season.
The record of Erichson in football is one which stands out prominently.
On the strong Washington and Jefferson team, he was an outstanding

Failing to make the turn off of Bloomington street onto Washington street, Mrs. F. A. Arnold, driving a new Sedan went into the front yard of the Otto Dobbs residence, tearing down one of the large brick pillars which stood on each side of the side walk to the Dobbs home, en route.
The car finally stopped just as it was about to go onto the front porch.

Mrs. Dobbs, who was on the front porch, saw that the car was out of control of the driver and as it was coming directly toward her she made a quick exit through her front door

TWENTY-SIX FROM PUTNAM COUNTY ATTENDING I. U.

COUNTY IS WELL REPRESENT-ED AT UNIVERSITY SUMMER SESSION—MANY FROM VAR-IOUS STATES ARE ATTRACTED BY SPECIAL TERM—AND ARE TAKING ADVANTAGE TO DO WORK IN ADVANCED DEGREE

(Special to the Greencastle Herald)

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., July 31.— Summer school work at Indiana university this year has attracted 1869 students from all parts of the state and from many other states and foreign countries, according to enrollment statistics recently compiled in the registrar's office. Included among the students are twenty from Putnam county and six from Greencastle.

The Indiana university summer school was organized in 1890 with an attendance of 31 students. In 1900 the summer school was officially made a part of the work of the regular university year. The work now offered is equivalent in method, character and credit value to that of the academic year and the credit granted is equivalent to that of one-half of a semester. The students attending the summer session consist of three main classes, those taking the twelve week's teacher training courses to qualify for teacher's licenses, teachers and other college graduates who are taking advantage of the opportunity to do work on advanced degrees during their summer vacations and under graduate students who are attending the summer session in order to shorten the length of time required for graduation from four years to three years and three months.

Dr. H. L. Smith, dean of the school of education of Indiana University and vice president of the National Educational Association, is director of the summer session. On the instructional staff are 116 educators from the regular faculty of the state university and from other institutions of higher learning.

Putnam county students attending Indiana university this summer are as follows:

Coatesville: Almon Ray Buis.
Cloverdale: Wanetia Fultz, Faye Myles, Bessie Spaulding, Viola Michael, Dorothy M. Michael.

Fillmore: Albert W. Heavin, Edna McKamey, Ruth Zeiner.

Greencastle: Henry Badger, Marion
E. Kendall, Clarence Lane, Jesse Steele, Eleanor Torr, Paul P. Van-Arsdel.

Roachdale: Jesse Fay Anderson, Adah Barnard, Glenn W. Blaydes, Claude H. Harshbarger.

Russellville: Ida K. Simpson (nurses' training school, Indianapolis).

INJURIES PROVE FATAL TO ACCIDENT VICTIM

Eric Cleveland Meredith of Hall, who was struck by a Pennsylvania train at Coatesville Wednesday evening, July 18, as he was crossing the track, died about five o'clock Sunday morning at the St. Vincent's hospital in Indianapolis where he was taken after the accident. Internal injuries caused his death. His condition was very serious for several days after being taken to the hospital but he finally began to improve and at one time he was pronounced out of danger.
Last Friday however he began to grow worse and word from Indianapolis Saturday was that his condition was critical.

The funeral services were held at Hall Tuesday at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

He is survived by a widow and four children and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Meredith.

Meredith it will be remembered drove a load of hay onto the tracks in Coatesville and stopped to see if a train was coming. An east bound passenger train struck the wagon, throwing the wagon and load of hay on which he was riding against the post office building in Coatesville injuring Meredith internally.

Tribute to Agriculturist.
In a moral point of view, the life of the agriculturist is the most pure and holy of any class of men; pure, because it is the most beautiful, and vice can hardly find time to contaminate it; and holy, because it brings the deity perpetually before his view, giving him thereby the most exalted notions of supreme power, and the most fascinating and endearing view of moral benignity.—Lord John Russell.

Reptile to Be Avoided.
Centipedes have an exceedingly venomous bite, that of the giant centi-pede, a native of Venezuela, being almost equal to that of the viper. Unlike the scorpion, they do not sting, but bite by means of a pair of strong "forceps" placed horizontally at the mouth.

Truth.
The Greek philosopher, Protagoras, maintained that all is illusion and that there is no such thing as truth. But Aristotle refuted him thus: "Your proposition is true or false; if it be false, then you are answered; if it be true, then there is something true and your proposition fails."

Odd Superstitions.
In Java, when search is made for the body of a drowned person, a live sheep is thrown into the water, and is supposed to indicate the position of the body by sinking near it. To procure rain Peruvians used to set a black sheep in a field, pour chicha over it, and give it nothing to eat till rain fell.

Some Ground for Belief.
A belief met with through all the south of France is that the position of a drowned body may be discovered by a floating loaf of bread. Possibly the only scientific basis is that the loaf is apt to be carried by a current of water just as a body is.

Co-Operation Imperative.
He who thinks he can find in himself the means of doing without others is much mistaken; but he who thinks that others cannot do without him is still more mistaken.—La Rochefou-cauld.

Beautiful Picture of Death.
Death, to a good man, is but passing through a dark entry, out of one little dusky room of his father's house, into another that is fair and large, lightsome and glorious, and divinely entertaining.—Clarke.

Overdoing It.
A German paper contains the following unique advertisement: "Any person who can prove that my tapoca contains anything injurious to health will have three boxes of it sent to him free of charge."—Tit-Bits.

Factories Poorly Lighted.
Lighting experts state that only 20 per cent of the factories of the United States are adequately lighted—in other words 80 per cent are illuminated below normal.

Dispelling Fog by Electricity.
A scheme for eliminating London smoke and fog by placing high-tension electrical apparatus on every lamp-post has been suggested by Prof. E. Wilson, an English scientist.

Turkish Proverb.
Do not resist the prompting of spirit

Potato Varieties Free From Wart

Tests Show That American Species May Be Planted in Infested Areas.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
It is now well established that potato culture need nowhere be abandoned on account of the prevalence of potato-wart disease, so long as suitable immune varieties are available, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. Co-operative tests conducted by the department have shown that there are a number of American varieties of potatoes which are immune from the disease and may safely be planted in infested areas. The results of these tests, covering a period of from one to four years, are discussed in Department Bulletin 1156 just published and now ready for distribution.

Immune Varieties.
A few of the principal varieties which have proved to be immune are Early Eureka, Early Petoskey, First Early, Cordon's Early Snowflake, Flourball and Irish Cobbler, belonging to the Cobbler group; Early Harvest, Ethiola, Extra Early Sunlight, and White Albino of the Early Michigan group; Spaulding Rose, of the Rose group; Burbank, of the Burbank group; Bountiful, Delaware, Gold Coin, Green Mountain, Green Mountain Junior, Idaho Rural, McGregor, Mc-Kinley, and Norcross of the Green Mountain group, as well as a number of others.

Quarantine Policy.
The use of wart-immune varieties of potatoes was adopted as a quarantine policy in 1920, the disease first having made its appearance in this country in 1918. As a preliminary step in this direction all owners of gardens and fields actually infested with potato-wart were permitted to grow only wart-immune varieties. The particular variety selected for this purpose was Spaulding Rose, which is a potato of good commercial quality and in addition possesses such outstanding varietal characteristics that the detection of mixtures is comparatively easy during the whole season of summer inspection.

A survey to determine the geographical location and extent of the disease was completed in September, 1922, and shows infestation in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Maryland.

ture, Washington, D. C.

It Pays to Dehorn All Stock Before Marketing

Dehorned steers or heifers not only can be handled more conveniently on the farm than cattle with horns, but if put on the market either as stock calves, feeders, or finished fat cattle, will sell for an average of one-half cent a pound more. This statement is made by W. H. Peters of the animal husbandry division at University farm, who says further:

"The best time to dehorn is when the calf is from ten days to one month old. The horns can then be easily killed, and with very little convenience to the calf, by rubbing them with a stick of caustic potash until they show a red surface. The caustic stick should be dampened on the end when rubbing the horn and should be held with a cloth about it or with an old glove on the hand. One application will suffice on the younger calves, but after calves are a month old it may be necessary to make two or even three applications. Yearling cattle can generally be dehorned with safety at this time of year. A dehorning clipper can be used."

Mr. Peters warns that purebred cattle should not be dehorned. The shape, size, quality, and position of the horns are characteristic of certain breeds and naturally have a bearing on the selling value. On that account, says Mr.
Peters, breeders discriminate severely against purebred cattle when they have been dehorned.

Stomach Worm Loss in Sheep Is Preventable

Animal husbandry division men at University farm say that sheep owners of the state have suffered great losses among their flocks by reason of the stomach worm. The lambs suffer the most. These losses can be reduced by treatment that is inexpensive and easily administered.

"The best preventive and the one most easily given," says Philip A. Anderson of the division, "is copper sulphate or blue stone, as it is often known. Make a 1 per cent solution by dissolving one-quarter of a pound of the blue stone in a pint of boiling water, adding cold water to make three gallons, being sure that a clear solution is obtained and always using an earthenware or a wooden receptacle. The dose for lambs, according to size, is three-quarters of an ounce to one and one-half ounces; for older sheep, two and one-half ounces to three ounces. An ordinary tablespoon holds one-half ounce.

"A veterinarian's syringe can be used, but care must be exercised in not pushing the plunger of the syringe too rapidly, as the solution may enter the lungs and give trouble. This treatment should be repeated in ten days or two weeks, or, if the flock is badly infested, two or three times during season at intervals of 30 days."

TIME TO REPLANT FORESTS

Essential Measures to Assure Future Timber Supply Should Be Undertaken at Once.

Our forests of the New world were so abundant when the early settlers landed on the Atlantic coast that it was almost impossible to find enough cleared land in one tract to make a forty-acre farm. The dense timber lands extended westward to the prairie country. It was but natural, therefore, that the forest should be considered by these pioneers as an enemy. Farms and settlements had to be hewed out of the timber lands and the forests seemed inexhaustible. Experts say that the original virgin forests of the United States covered approximately 822,000,000 acres. They are now shrunk to one-sixth of that area. At one time they were the richest forests in the world. Today there are millions of acres which contain neither timber nor young growth. Considerable can be restored if the essential measures are started on a national scale. Such measures would insure an adequate lumber supply for all time to come.—From "School Book of Forestry," by C. L. Pack.

sedition, was driving sedately along on his homeward way. The shades of night had fallen. No air of mystery pervaded the city and all was well.
Bangety-bang-bangety began the hood over his engine. Something was coming loose. He drew up to the curb and opened the door to get out to see about the thing.

He opened the door to get out. He didn't get out because—a woman tore open the rear door of the car on the opposite side, and sprang into the back seat, whacked him on the shoulder, and cried:

"Beat it, honey, beat it, they're raidin' me again!"

A few minutes later, about twenty blocks away, an automobile with a loose hood rattled up to the curb. It contained a man in the front seat and a woman in the rear seat. The man was heard to say to the woman:

"Now you beat it—and get out of here!"—Indianapolis Star.

Read Fables and Live Long.

The problem of how to live to the century mark has been solved again.

This time the wizard is Prof. Pierre Armaingaud, of Bordeaux, France, who is ninety-four years old. He says any one can live to 100 if they follow his example and read La Fontaine's fables regularly every night before going to bed.

"For sixty years I have never missed my Montaigne," Armaingaud told the French academy of medicine.
"He is worth all medicines in the world."

Some of the offended doctors present, however, pointed out that La Montaigne himself had a different view of life, as explained in a passage where he says: "Long life or short life, it's all the same when one's dead.
All your life you are living at the cost of life."

Burst Its Bonds.

Another girl and I are studying home nursing during the evening, which necessitates our staying downtown for dinner. In order to save expenses we cook our meals in the office and consequently have had to take down a lot of kitchen utensils.

I was bringing a frying pan down one morning. It was an awkward bundle to carry, and when I got in the crowded street car away up in front so that every one could see me something went "clang" like a fire alarm.
Everybody looked, and there in front of me was my frying pan, which had fallen out of the paper. A man nearly fell over it, but kindly picked it up and gave it to me. There I had to stand until the end of my journey.

Chair Named for Englishman.

The Morris chair, which was once considered essential to the comfort and appearance of every home, in living room and library, was named for William Morris, an Englishman, and yet it is distinctively an American product. Latter-day critics are inclined to condemn the Morris chair on artistic grounds, yet its comfort and utility can hardly be denied. Where the Morris chair is known abroad, it still retains the same name and is regarded as strictly American in its origin.

New Idea in Talking Machines.

Claiming the human throat as the inspiration of his invention, a Colorado man has introduced a new type of talking machine. The exterior is similar to others of the cabinet form, but the interior contains numerous departures from the usual make of instruments. The essential part of the innovation, described in Popular Mechanics Magazine, is a metal appliance fashioned after the throat and inclosed in the apex of a wooden horn of heavy construction. The tone also is increased by means of various other sound-absorbing and magnifying arrangements.

Pie.

"This is a queer pie. Where did you get the recipe?"

"It was furnished 'Apartment Hints' by a movie actress."

"No wonder it's a queer pie."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

PRESIDENT'S CONDITION STILL GRAVE

DEVELOPMENT OF BRONCHO-PNEUMONIA IN RIGHT LUNG CAUSES—PHYSICIANS SOME CONCERN—WEAKENED CONDITION IS HANDICAP IN FIGHT FOR LIFE IN SAN FRANCISCO HOTEL

PRESIDENTIAL HEADQUARTERS, PALACE HOTEL, SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—President Harding was so far refreshed by a sleep which lasted more than six hours last night that he said this morning that he felt able to look at the news of the day and sent out for the newspapers, all of which were devoted largely to accounts of his illness.

Arrayed against the President in his fight for life are broncho-pneumonia symptoms of which were found by the attending physician late last night and also the danger of other complication. Arrayed in his favor are his calm determination, a subsidence of the earlier abdominal trouble and the hopes and prayers of a nation. His handicap is an admittedly weakened physical resistance.

None of the five attending physicians will predict the outcome, although all are optimistic.

A bulletin issued at 9:15 last night after a consultation of the five physicians attending the President, contained the first announcement that broncho-pneumonia had developed in the right lung, although a statement given out four hours previously had spoken of "evidence of some congestion in one lung." It also conveyed the first authoritative information that his condition had turned from "serious" to "grave."

The bulletin also contained rays of hope for it said that "nourishment is being taken regularly and the abdominal symptoms are less noticeable" and that the President was "temperamentally well adapted to make a strong fight against the infection." Another favorable statement was that his temperature was remaining about constant at 101 degrees, even though his pulse continued about 125 as compared with his normal of 80 and his respiration was about 44.

Miss Helen O'Hair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bascom O'Hair who reside north of Brick Chapel and Mrs. George Gardner have gone to Indianapolis for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus O'Hair and family. Mr. O'Hair is a nephew of Mrs. Gardner. Mr. and Mrs. O'Hair formerly lived near Brick Chapel.

FOUR HURT WHEN AUTO HITS DITCH NEAR FINCASTLE

MRS. J. W. BADGETT AND ENGLAND BADGETT OF NORTH VERNON, WORST INJURED—MRS. OTTO CIOFALO, OF BROOKLYN, N. Y., BADLY CUT AND BRUISED—PARTY WERE HEADED FOR NEW YORK

(Crawfordsville Review) Four persons were injured, none probably fatally, when their car crashed into the ditch near the bridge a quarter of a mile south of Fincastle at 11:40 o'clock Sunday night in trying to get out of the way of a speeding automobile. The injured are:

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Padgett and grandson England Badgett of North Vernon, Ill.

Mrs. Ciofalo, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. Otto Ciofalo, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. Badgett and the grandson were the most seriously injured. Mrs. Ciofalo, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Padgett and who was the owner and driver of the car was badly cut about the face and probably has internal injuries. Mr. Badgett was only slightly injured.

The four injured persons were rushed to the Culver Union hospital in the Barnhill and Hunt ambulances.

Mrs. Ciofalo was driving her mother and father and nephew to her home at North Vernon, Sunday.

Going north on the Greencastle road, she noticed a fast driving touring car which refused to give her any of the road, Mrs. Ciofalo said.

In trying to get out of the way she skidded in the soft gravel and went into the ditch.

The driver of the car did not stop and the four injured persons were left along the ditch calling for help until another automobile came by. The accident was so sudden that no one was able to describe the car.

The injured were taken to the house of Albert Gulliams near where the mishap occurred and they were bandaged there.

The car was a new Studebaker and was badly damaged.

Mrs. Ciofalo's husband is in Brooklyn. Mrs. Ciofalo was taking her parents there because of her father's poor health. She said that he was going to a specialist there. Mr. Badgett was the least hurt of the party and was not required to stay at the hospital.

SPANISH CHURCH ERECTED IN 661

Building Stands Practically Same as When Finished.

IS WORTHY EXAMPLE OF ART

The old temples, basilicas and baptistries built in Spain at the dawn of Christianity have all disappeared, and one can but construct mind pictures of them from reading the carefully written literary records. A fairly accurate idea of early Christian architecture is gained from these descriptions, but to the ordinary reader they do not carry the same lasting impression that is to be obtained from seeing a thing for one's self and perhaps taking a snapshot of it.

There are still standing in Spain today ruins or reconstructions of temples built there during the seventh century. The ruins of Segobriga and the chapel of Elche, Santa Comba de Bande and San Miguel de Tarras, the latter simply a baptistry, are examples of this early architecture, but in each case there is either a question as to the exact date of erection or in its present remodeled state little is left of the early style and atmosphere.

Rare Specimens of Art.

Francisco Mendizabal, in an article in "A B C" says that the oldest church of which the date of building is certain is the Basilica of San Juan Bautista de Baños de Cerrato, built in 661 by Reccesvinto, an early king of the Visigoths. The peculiar thing about this church which sets it apart from others built a few years earlier, perhaps, and still standing, is the fact that with slight changes it has kept through the ages very nearly the same form in which it came from the hands of the ancient Visigoth workmen. It is said of this church:

"It is the oldest of the Christian temples of Spain, and without a doubt the most important one which has been preserved with regard to architectural worth, structure and integrity. It is not a ruin, a fragment. It is a complete specimen, unequalled in Spain."

This old basilica, situated not far from Palencia, in northern Spain, was dedicated to St. John by the king who had it built. Reccesvinto, during his reign, undertook to crush a rebellion among the Basques, who had revolted against him. Having accomplished this, he returned to old Castile victorious but exhausted and ill, and sought rest and solace in the quiet fields along the Pisuerga river.

Story of Cure of King.

One day, the story goes, he was walking beside the banks of a clear stream and, coming to a crystal spring, he leaned down to drink. Almost as soon as the water touched his lips he felt that he was being relieved of the disease that he had contracted. He continued to drink, and as he did so he was miraculously cured. He attributed the miracle to St. John, to whose protection he had long ago committed himself, and as an act of gratitude had the temple built not far from the healing spring and dedicated it to St. John.

It is a quaint building, this Basilica de San Juan Bautista, with its columns of colored jasper and Corinthian capitals. The wall of the nave, above the horseshoe arches, is cut by a row of small windows of the same horseshoe shape, and within the church one may see above the central arch the old dedicatory inscription written so many centuries ago.

DANISH RULER IS A GIANT

King Christian Six Feet Six Inches Tall; One Was Eight Feet.

King Christian, who celebrated his silver wedding recently, is 6 feet 6 inches in height, the tallest of the world's rulers. He comes of a family noted for height. In the cathedral of Roskilde, where Denmark's kings lie buried, the only monument to Christian I is a line scratched eight feet above the pavement on a pillar, which shows his stature when alive. Many famous men have measured themselves against this record of the giant king, but the only one to surpass it was Pat Murphy, the Irish wonder, who towered 8 feet 6 inches.

Coincidence rather than heredity enables the present Danish king to uphold the tradition, for the royal family of Denmark is not Danish in blood or descent so much as German.

TO STOP HOPI SNAKE DANCE

Indians in Arizona Requested to Discontinue Famous Tribal Dance.

Charles H. Burke, United States commissioner of Indian affairs, has requested Indian tribes of Arizona to discontinue their tribal dances, especially the famous Hopi snake dance held each August, and has made known that the request will be followed by an executive order if necessary.

The belief that the handling of poisonous reptiles is injurious to the Indians is said to have led to the request.

Indians in northern Arizona have expressed dissatisfaction with the request on the ground that it constitutes interference with tribal religious ceremonies. The Hopi snake dance, is known as one of the world's most famous Indian ceremonies, and has been witnessed by thousands of visitors in past years.

CRUSH BACKBONE OF SNAKE

Dorsal Vertebra Is Reptile's Weakest Point, While Skull Can Stand, Much Hard Usage.

Upon catching sight of a snake the impulse of the average person is to stamp upon its head, an action that is decidedly unwise. A snake's skull is very tough, as behooves a part of the body that is knocked against stones, etc., owing to the extreme short-sightedness of all serpents. The back, on the contrary, is easily broken with a light tap, for it consists of a delicate system of ball-and-socket joints. Should snakes be harmless, the best plan is to let them alone; should they be dangerous, a shot from a revolver is safe and effective.

In case no revolver is at hand, a rap with a cane is sufficient, but care must be taken to keep away from the head of the creature.

A snake does not normally go about hitting its skull against hard objects; it only does this when in a hurry. Moving at its ordinary pace, it feels its way with its long, delicate, forked tongue.

In the same way, when about to swallow its food, it touches it all over with its tongue in order to ascertain where to take hold, and this process has given rise to the mistaken idea that a snake covers its prey with saliva prior to swallowing it. No doubt a considerable quantity of saliva is generated during the process of deglutition, but it does not come from the tongue, which is merely used as a feeler.

When a snake bites, it bisects its head up to the nape of its neck, and opens its jaws until they are in the same plane, i. e., at right angles to the body. These jaws are provided with six rows of strong teeth, four on the upper jaw and two on the lower jaw.

This is a very formidable arrangement, but when one remembers that a medium-sized constrictor can project its head with sufficient force to knock a man off his feet, and will, on provocation or sometimes without it, let go this catapult machinery, one is likely to avoid constrictors as far as possible. Such a snake can take hold of a man and shake him or strip the skin and flesh from the part seized as if it were paper.

All Ready for Eclipse.

Ingenuity was manifested to a notable degree in Spain and France at the time of the last solar eclipse. The windows in Madrid, Paris and other cities were filled with a great variety of devices for viewing the passage of the moon across the sun's disk without danger to the observer's eyes. There were black spectacles, black glass monacles, black glasses set in postboard handles of twenty different forms, and also devices for viewing the phenomena by reflection. But the people made many contrivances of their own, such as pinholes through paper or through the tops of derby hats. Some viewed the eclipse in the streets or on the roofs by reflection from pails or pans of water to reduce the glare, and some saw it through cambric handkerchiefs or thin umbrellas. The bookshops abounded with paper-bound treatises on eclipses. —Washington Star.

A Boy's Ambition.

David with a number of other boys attended a father and son banquet. To start off the program some one suggested that each boy be asked to give his name and age and what he most desired to be when he grew up. It happened that David's father owned a department store in the town and was known among other things for his ability to take a joke. David, therefore, was instructed what to say when it came his time to tell what he wished to be when he became older.

The boys were called on, and the men were enjoying listening to the youngsters. When it came David's turn, he told his name and age, who his father was, and said he guessed he'd like to be a gambler.

Ancient Witticism.

Harry Pratt Judson, president of the University of Chicago, cites the dictum of a very crusty old bachelor: "The reason men are apt to be bald while women do not usually raise a beard is the same in each case—hair does not as a rule grow plentifully where there is the greatest activity. But this is very ancient—I dare say could be found in one of the classical Greek comedies. In fact, the situations which lead to witticisms are quite alike through the ages, and I fancy that the Herald will do little more than reproduce something from the Egyptian papyrus of the time of Tut-Ankh-Amen." —New York Herald.

Breaking It Gently.

The lieutenant's orderly had been taking too many privileges in the opinion of his gold-barred boss, and the latter had decided to call him down or let it at the next opportunity. It presented itself shortly. "Sir," the orderly approached him one day, "I'm gonna go to town to see my girl tonight and I should like to borrow your leather puttees."

"Wuff—wuff!" choked the lieutenant by way of a preliminary. "Wuff—"

"And, sir, I have them on." —American Legion Weekly.

For Self-Protection.

Judge—Why did you jump into the fight. It was none of your affair. Prisoner—That's true, your honor but I had to take sides one way or the other. I couldn't take chances on being an innocent bystander. —Boston Evening Transcript.

HOW "GEYSERS" ARE FORMED

Interesting Information Concerning Natural Curiosities, Made Public by the Interior Department.

What makes geysers "blow up" and what causes "the flame of fire" on Firehole lake, Yellowstone park? are among the questions answered recently by the Interior department.

After comparing the hot-water spouts to volcanoes and referring to them as "natural steam engines," the report continues:

"The heat from the hot lava continuously applied to water at the bottom of the geyser tube causes it to be heated to a high temperature, while the water near the surface is still cool. Eventually the water at the bottom reaches the pressure boiling point, when steam is formed, lifting the water above it and causing overflow at the top. This overflow relieves the pressure, and all that part of the column where the temperature was previously below the boiling point but now exceeds it, flies into steam and ejects the water above with great violence.

"The water thus erupted flows back into the tube or percolates through the porous lava and is reheated for the ensuing eruption.

"Old Faithful," one of the more prolific of the geysers, usually erupts every 65 minutes. The water is thrown out to a height between 130 and 170 feet for four minutes. The estimated discharge is 200,000 gallons at each eruption.

Commenting on the "flame of fire," the bulletin says:

"At 100 yards to the extreme eastern end of Firehole lake the so-called flames are visible. They are seen only from this point and one other and should the wind be causing a disturbance of the water they may not be seen at all. There is a circular opening in the bottom of the lake of a deep-seated spring not unlike other vents of thermal waters.

"Through this vent, which usually stands full of clear, transparent water, numerous bubbles of mingled air and superheated steam rise gradually. Before reaching the surface they unite to form one large mass that in its upward passage strikingly resembles a flame of fire."

Woman Wear Black Wigs.

Silk wigs for women are popular in London and are taking on new developments that are exceedingly quaint and attractive. Bobbed silk wigs are being worn as well as slightly curled Greek silk wigs. There are silk wigs with plaits and silk wigs with coils over the ears. Indeed there is no hairdressing fashion which is not carried out in the silk wig. The silk wig originated in the close headresses which were made to match or to carry out the color scheme of the entire costume. The brightness of the silk make it most becoming to a pretty face. These wigs strongly resemble natural hair—yet they are sufficiently unlike hair to excite the slight shock of surprise that is so pleasing an effect of an unusual dress.

She Figured It Out.

A youth in an Indianapolis school was absent from school for a number of days. A teacher, who shows real interest in the progress of her pupils, called the mother on the telephone and inquired concerning the lad.

"John's afraid to come back," said the mother. "He says you threatened to throw him into the furnace."

Perplexed, the teacher for a day or two wondered what could have put that silly notion in the boy's head. Then she remembered. Some days before she had told that class some recalcitrants had been absent more days than good scholarship permitted. She had announced to her class then that if these persons missed another session she would be compelled to "drop them from the register."

Taught England to Smoke.

The first man to make cigarettes for the benefit of these islands was Mr. Nicholas Comdouris, a Greek who became an American citizen. It was in 1858 that he brought ten boxes of Turkish tobacco to England and started to make cigarettes, which were then unknown.

"At first," Mr. Comdouris told me, "only a few people adopted the new habit; they included the then prince of Wales and Lady Mordant. It took much patience and perseverance before cigarette smoking became popular."

Mr. Comdouris, who is one of the most picturesque figures in London, is eighty-seven, and is able to speak 20 languages.—London Tit-Bits.

But That Was Different.

Mother was entertaining her card club, and, of course, desired anything rather than embarrassment. Arnold, very young but very much a basket-ball fan, burst into the room with:

"Mother, may I go to the basket-ball game?"

"No," replied mother. "You went to a game last night."

"Thoughtful for a minute, Arnold came back with:

"But this one won't cost anything, mother."

Connects Twelve States.

The Lincoln highway connects 12 states and is laid out between New York and San Francisco as directly as possible consistent with the topography of the country. Its length is about 3,284 miles, but this will be shortened by improvements and the elimination of curves. It is the longest road in the world and is to be of concrete wherever practicable.

The Well-Managed Home

THE manager of a household is the purchasing agent for a large proportion of the family needs. In order to do a good job she must know what, when and where to buy. She must study goods and the concerns which make goods and have them to sell. She must put her home on a business basis and run it on principles in order to make the most of the family income.

Information is the only basis for intelligent purchasing. And the right way to get the greatest amount of necessary information is to read the advertisements.

Advertisements tell you what is new and good in merchandise. They reveal improvements and inventions that make your home life easier, more comfortable and more convenient. They give you information about a thousand and one things that are useful and interesting.

Every manager of a household—every member of the household who shares the responsibility for the family's welfare—should make a practice of reading the advertisements. They are daily lessons in economy.
